

THE RACE IS ON

England Makes Thirteenth Try to Lift American Cup.

Great Crowd Out to See The Big International Event.

Reliance and Shamrock Got Started Shortly After 11 O'clock Shamrock Leading--Rain Obscures View--Reliance Gaining.

Highlands, Aug. 20.—(Bulletin)—3 p. m.—No race. Reliance cannot finish within the time limit. Reliance is over a mile ahead of Shamrock.

Highlands, N. J., Aug. 20.—A four knot southwest wind is blowing. The sea is smooth with a promise of more wind before the yachts start today.

The English today make the thirteenth attempt to lift America's cup, and Shamrock III. is conceded to be the finest yacht ever built in England.

Sir Thomas Lipton said this morning: "We go to the race full of confidence. We may be defeated, but I cannot realize it. May the best boat win, but win or lose, it will be a great race."

At 9:45 a. m. the wind had pulled to the north. A storm cloud is approaching from the west.

The wheel of the Reliance will be in the hands of Charles Barr, a Scotchman, who has adopted America as his home. Captain Bob Wienege will be at the wheel of the Shamrock III. It is sufficient to state that they are two of the craftiest sailing skippers in the world, and there is little to choose between them. Charley Barr is given credit for saving the cup contest two years ago, by his admirable sailing of the Columbia against Shamrock II.

The element of weather brings with it the ever present feature of all sporting contests, luck. The best boat does not always win all races, but she will capture the major portion of them.

10:05 a. m.—The wind is now in the southeast. Should it hold from this quarter the yachts will have 15 miles the start and return. The largest crowd that ever went to see the yacht races is now out at sea every description of sea going craft and hundreds were left at the piers unable to get aboard the excursion steamers.

The betting on the races has been very light. Fred Brooks has placed $8,000 on Shamrock against $14,000 on the Reliance. He has also $10,000 to place at odds of two and a half to one, but so far has no takers.

At 11 a. m. the time for the start, the wind was almost gone. The yachts now await the breeze.

As seen from shore the start was as follows: Shamrock 11:06:10, Reliance 11:06:16. Reliance is gaining fast on Shamrock. Boats crossed the line on the starboard tack.

After 20 minutes' sailing Shamrock still held the lead on the Reliance. Both yachts are now obscured by the rain.

12:45 p. m.—Shamrock went about to starboard and was followed a minute later by Reliance. It can be definitely stated at this time that Reliance is leading.

1:05 p. m.—Both yachts were brought about to starboard tack and headed down along shore. Reliance was about one quarter of a mile to windward of the challenge.

1:39 p. m.—Boats standing on starboard tack with Reliance increasing her lead constantly. The yachts are now within five miles of the outer mark and the wind is hauling into westward.

2 p. m.—Wind headed Shamrock off her course so that she stood out to eastward. This freak of the wind gave the Reliance a greater lead. The Reliance is now about two miles from the outer mark.

3:30 p. m.—No race. Reliance, a mile ahead of the Shamrock, cannot finish in the time limit.

BIG CROWD IS OUT.
New York, Aug. 20.—The largest crowd that has ever witnessed an international yacht race is aloft today in vessels of every description. The scene along the docks in the early morning hours was one that will remain long in the memories of those fortunate enough to witness it. Every cross street leading to the water front was filled with pedestrians, garbed in every conceivable article of clothing. Mixed in the crowd were hundreds of fashionably dressed women whose ardor not even threatening skies could daunt. Withal it was an intensely patriotic crowd. There was none but admired Sir Thomas Lipton and personally wished him well, yet in every heart the wish was predominant, "May Reliance win."

The New York Yacht club's steamer Monmouth, left her dock in the North river at 9:25. On board were one thousand enthusiastic rooters for the cup defender. She was followed by vessels of every description from the small launch to the big ocean going excursion steamer, all loaded to their capacity with a happy conglomeration of humanity armed with tin horns, megaphones and apparatus warranted to make a noise.

Dawson, Alaska, Aug. 20.—Five men are dead and 275 facing starvation, living on berries and mosses, is the situation in the Nazina section. Their emaciated condition makes it impossible for the prospectors to report to Dawson. Many will die before food can be sent them. The were trying to reach Yukon, 500 miles away, when their food gave out. It is the result of the rush to Nazina, two months ago.

Canton, Aug. 20.—W. A. Wortman, a jeweler, reported his store robbed of $2,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry. He left it locked Wednesday and returned this morning to find everything in disorder.

HIT BY LIGHTNING
But the Physicians Say That the Kentucky Woman Will Recover.
Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Wm Spalding, aged 38, living at Thorn Hill, a suburb, was struck by lightning and had a narrow escape from death. Mrs. Spalding was sitting at her sewing machine when lightning struck the house. The lightning coursed through the chimney and struck her on the left side of the face. She was unconscious for an hour, but physicians say she will recover.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Another sensation in the postoffice scandal has been sprung by the issuance of an order, to General Bristow directing him to put forth all his inspectors to work on the dead letter office, the charge being made that a large number of letters containing valuables have disappeared. This announcement is followed with the meeting of the grand jury which immediately resumed its investigation of the affairs of the postoffice department. It is said that, at the conclusion of its investigation, there will be another batch of indictments.

Among the cases the inspectors are now on is that of W. O. Hazzard, division superintendent of rural free delivery for the state of New York, who it is charged, drew a per diem allowance of $4 per day from the government as if on active field duty, while confined in a hospital under treatment for a gunshot wound, inflicted by a man who said Hazzard had invaded his home. Machen succeeded in keeping the stories out of the newspapers.

A list of five minor officials and high salaried clerks at the postoffice department has been prepared and submitted to Postmaster General Payne for dismissal. It is almost certain that dismissals of those on the list will begin soon. These clerks and minor officials are to be dismissed chiefly because they did not make any effort to prevent the stealing that has been going on.

TAYLOR & CO.

Settle With Their Creditors and Ask For Reinstatement on the Stock Exchange.

New York, Aug. 20.—Talbot J. Taylor & Company have settled with the last customer and applied for readmission to the stock exchange.

The committee on insolvency was called late in the afternoon and passed on the Taylor application.

It must now go over for two weeks when the committee on admissions will meet and formally reinstate the firm.

This quick settlement of the affairs of the great stock exchange house is due largely to the efforts of James R. Keene, whose son-in-law Talbot J. Taylor is. The exact terms of settlement is not made public, but most of them accepted fifty cents on the dollar with the understanding that they would be paid in full as rapidly as the profits of the firm would justify it.

Among the creditors there is a general belief that the firm was the victim of a revengeful campaign because of its action in the Southern Pacific pool.

It is said on high authority that the Union Pacific directors had fully made up their minds to pay a dividend on Southern Pacific before the Keene pool in that stock became active.

When the Keene pool became active, however, personal interests clashed with the railroad interests and the result was the organization of a great bear pool which ran counter to the Keene pool throughout the entire campaign.

SENATOR SULLIVAN

Told Witness That Three Votes Could Be Bought for $4,500.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 20.—The trial of State Senator Sullivan under indictment on the charge of soliciting a bribe of $4,500 from baking powder interests for three votes in favor of the bill to repeal the anti-alum law, has commenced. Whitney Layton, representative of the baking powder interest, the witness upon whom the prosecution depends chiefly, after testifying to the fact that he attended the legislature last winter trying to secure the repeal of the pure food bill, said: "I met Senator Sullivan in the large room back of the Senate cloak room. He said we needed three votes to get the bill that we wanted passed. He said that for the sum of $4,500 he could carry two other votes and his own for the repeal of the law."

"Who were the other Senators?"

"He gave me to understand that Senator Smith was one of the others. He said we would see Smith and go into the matter further."

Layton then told of Sullivan, Smith and himself going to the Madison House and added: "Just then Senator Farris came in and Senator Smith stepped over and joined Senator Farris. I talked to Senator Smith later, after Smith had talked with Farris."

Sullivan denied that he had ever made any proposition to Layton to secure three votes for the sum of $4,500, and charged Layton with attempting to bribe him for $3,000 to vote for the alum bill.

Senator Smith took the stand and partly corroborated the testimony given by Sullivan, and said that Layton told him that Sullivan had ignored him. Major Emmett Newton also testified that Layton offered to purchase Sullivan through him. Layton denied this and charged that Newton borrowed $20 from him on the train one day and had never returned it.

FOR SEVEN YEARS

"Ark" Fletcher Never Spoke to Her, His Wife Alleges.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 20.—For seven years "Ark" Fletcher and his wife Martha lived in the same house and yet the man never in all those years spoke to her. This is the declaration set up in the wife's petition for divorce. And then, when the seven years' silence was at last broken, she says it was in a quarrel. She wants the courts to dissolve the marital ties. They were married in Sandusky in 1869. Seven children have been born to them, five of whom are now living. The eldest is 30 years old and the youngest 19.

PENNSYLVANIA

Officers Here Propose Big Corps Encampment Next Year.

The Chaplains Arrange for Union Services Next Sunday.

Rain Puts Camp in Fine Shape--Total Number Men Here About 6000 it is Officially Announced --The Next Year's Program.

Camp McKinley, Aug. 20.—Today's the novelty has much abated and usually at this time the men begin to wish for the end of camp. Yet quite generally is expressed the wish that camp was to extend over two weeks.

Though officers and men are greatly pleased with this camp, it is likely nevertheless that next year will see few troops camped here. Next year, as has been before stated, the guard will camp by regiments, brigade and division camps to occur only once in three years. And the year the guard camps by regiments each command will go where it pleases. The men, while they recognize the superiority of Camp McKinley, would rather camp now and then elsewhere. This can be done when it is regimental camp year for each regiment can choose its own place. Then, too, any town or city in the state is willing to offer strong inducements to the different regiments. The presence for a week of nearly 1000 men makes business for a town and it is good policy to offer inducements. In a way the various regiments were in better shape before the state acquired the Newark camp. Regimental treasures were much more opulent in the old day and, while this condition had no appreciable influence on proficiency, it did enable the different commands to do many things now impossible. It resulted mainly in more parade and show, which is all very well in its place. So that next year is likely to be in marked contrast to this at Camp Wm. McKinley.

Chaplains arrange Sunday program. Big union meeting. Rain puts camp in fine condition. Sick list numbers 105. Officially announced attendance here is about 6,000.

Probably next year will see few regiments on the Newark ground. First squadron drill of Ohio Cavalry ever held.

Flag now at full mast. Battery's fine target practice. Capt. Crawford in guard 10 years today.

Instructions for care of new guns. Day's field officers and details. Brigade review Thursday. Division review tomorrow and Sunday. Wind blew down a few tents.

Camp McKinley, Aug. 20.—It seems as if nothing lacks to make Camp McKinley both a good camp from the military point of view, and also a most pleasant place in which to be. The weather has been perfect, clear, sunny and just warm enough. But the absence of rain was beginning to minimize the pleasure for the roads were becoming dusty and the grass was so smooth that walking was made somewhat difficult. Then the rain came. Every man in camp welcomed it and now only excessive heat, or unusual rains can spoil the natural conditions for the remaining days of camp. The rain not only made life pleasant, but it made it easier, too, for much of the regular routine was stopped for the day by it. Nearly every organization was out at drill when the clouds gathered and the strains of recall were sounded by a score of buglers. Thereafter the men lounged about their tents for the day.

When evening came the regular order was resumed and for the balance of the week will be observed uninterruptedly.

Last night was one of the pleasantest since camp began. The rain made everyone feel like enjoying himself and everyone did. Every band in camp was playing and a considerable number of visitors was gathered at each headquarters enjoying the music. The First regiment alone was without music out of respect to its lamented colonel. Now that his funeral has occurred it is likely that the First's band will also play in the evenings. The absence of music in the First regiment has been felt by all, as the band has a notable reputation.

At no previous camp have there been so many regular army officers and at no camp of the Ohio Guard has there been so much favorable comment from these trained-to-be-critical officers. One of the real feats which is seldom accomplished in the citizen soldier—or if accomplished, only in limited degree—is to make the men realize the necessity of discipline and to gain their loyal acquiescence to it. And the regular army officers say that this is done in the Ohio Guard, as they find it at Camp McKinley, to a remarkable degree. The interest and enthusiasm of the men also is great and they perform their military duties, even the amount of drudgery that falls to each man's lot, with the utmost cheerfulness. It is welcome news to everyone that Ohio's soldiers feel so, and the boys can rest assured that their improvement is heard of with enthusiasm from the lake to the river.

The time in camp is now half gone.

EVENT

Of the Day Was the Arrival of Pennsylvania Officers Who Propose Corps Encampment.

Camp McKinley, Aug. 20.—The most important happening today was the arrival of a distinguished party of Pennsylvanians. They were guests of Governor George K. Nash and Major General Charles F. Dick. In the party were Col. L. P. Brown, aid to Governor Pennypacker, Col. F. K. Patterson, inspector general Pennsylvania National Guard, Major A. Aushutz, quartermaster of the Second Brigade; Captain W. A. McNary, aid to General Wiley of the Second Brigade; Captain N. J. Livingston, quartermaster, and Chaplain A. P. Davis of Co. I, 14th regiment Pennsylvania infantry.

The visit of these men was on invitation from the O. N. G. officers, and was informal as far as having any official significance although it had the sanction and approval of Pennsylvania chief executive.

The distinguished visitors all of whom live in Pittsburgh, were given mounts and shown every courtesy and attention as well as given all the facilities possible to see the working and methods of Ohio's soldiers while in camp. Col. Brown voiced the sentiment of the entire party when he said that the condition of the men and the appointments of the camp were well nigh perfect.

"There is no state in the union that has a finer body of men as members of her National Guard, than Ohio, and as there are no better officers to be found anywhere, it is safe to say that the superior of the Ohio Guard is not to be better, and I can not wonder that the officers of the guard as well as the citizens of Newark, are proud of the permanent encampment grounds."

During the day the Pittsburgh party held a conference with General Dick regarding the advisability of holding next year a corps encampment of the National Guard of Ohio and Pennsylv-vania, at Gettysburg The Brigade Commanders Generals W. V. McMaken and J. C. Speaks were present, and although the idea was looked upon with favor by the Ohio officers, nothing definite was decided upon.

There is a very friendly feeling between the officers of the militia of Ohio and Pennsylvania, and an encampment such as the one proposed would be for the betterment of both organizations.

SUNDAY

Chaplain Cotton is the ranking chaplain of the entire division, and for this reason this honor was conferred upon him.

RAIN

Improved Condition at Grounds, but Wind Blew Some Tents Down During the Night.

The rain Wednesday afternoon was a Godsend to the soldiers at Camp McKinley, and Thursday morning the grounds were in absolutely perfect condition for the drills and other work of the camp.

The rain was accompanied by a high wind which for a time threatened many of the tents, but all over the vast camp the men could be seen driving the stakes deeper, securing the guy ropes and dropping the flaps, so that among the hundreds of tents there was not a half dozen that were blown down or even badly disarranged.

Some of the poles and wires erected by the signal corps were blown down or out of line, but the damage was quickly repaired and Thursday morning the telephone service was complete in every detail. The work of the signal corps has been such that received the official recognition and praise of Gov. Nash and General Dick this morning, who personally complimented Captain Jones for the work done by his company.

IN THE HOSPITALS.

According to Surgeon General E. C. Brush, 105 men are sick in the various hospitals. None of the cases are dangerous the great majority being minor complaints, which will speedily yield to treatment.

NUMBER IN CAMP.

There has been considerable misinformation published in some of the newspapers regarding the number of men in camp, and authoritative figures were obtained from Col. George M. Wright, adjutant general of the division commander, Thursday morning, which confirms the estimates given in the Advocate when the camp opened Monday. Col. Wright stated that in the two brigades there were over 5200 men, while with the troops which were unattached, such as the four batteries, signal corps and others the grand total of men in camp would reach about 6000.

THE FLAG

Now Floats at Full Mast—The Spectacular Features of Camp Begins.

This morning for the first time since camp began the flag was seen at full mast. Col. Bundy's funeral occurred yesterday afternoon, but the regulation is that the flag shall remain at half mast until retreat of the day of the funeral. It didn't seem natural to see the flag only half way up and the camp was constantly reminded of the chosen as the major when the election is held. Captain Crawford is the ranking captain in the regiment and he should receive the honor, and there appears at present no doubt but that he will.

Three companies of the battalion are Columbus troops, and all three captains are candidates for the position. It is absolutely certain that Crawford will get votes from even these Columbus companies while he is practically the unanimous choice of the first and second battalions.

Captain Crawford joined the National Guard just 10 years ago, August 20, 1893, and for three years and 6 months carried a gun as a private. He was six months corporal and was then elected a Lieutenant, and for the past three years has been a captain. On Thursday of this week he is entitled to retire from the service after ten years of faithful work in the National Guard of Ohio.

FINE FLAG

Presented to the Fifth Regiment by Col. Sullivan of Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Col. J. J. Sullivan formerly an officer in the Fifth regiment, now president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, presented the Fifth with a fine flag last night. Col. Sullivan was unavoidable absent and in his place Mrs. Zimmerman presented the colors. The affair was a delightful surprise and Col. Zimmerman in accepting the beautiful colors, said:

"In behalf of myself and staff, as well as the line officers and the enlisted men, I wish to thank Col. Sullivan for his beautiful gift and kindly words of praise for the organization that I have the honor to command. No officer could make a failure with the material of which the Fifth is made and whatever of credit is due the organization for their knowledge of military regula-sergeant in the troop, and the other is the son of Col. Herrick, the Republican candidate for Governor this year. The Captain of the troop says this is his first visit to the Newark camp in ten years. He was here once at target practice. He, like his men and all the others on the ground, pronounce the camp an ideal one. There is no sickness in Troop A and not a single accident has occurred. The maneuvers of the troop with their splendidly trained horses which were brought from Cleveland are watched daily by hundreds of interested people from Newark and other visitors to camp. The troop makes a striking appearance.

THE RAIN

Fell in Torrents at Camp, but Left the Ground in Fine Condition Wednesday.

The most welcome thing that could have happened for the comfort of the soldiers now in division encampment, was a copious rain which fell for two hours Wednesday afternoon. The dust was becoming intolerable and although there was no scarcity of water, the downpour made drilling much more pleasant and beneficial.

On account of the rain all regimental drills were declared postponed, but part of the regular dress parades were held in the evening.

The ground being of a gravelly nature quickly drank up the water leaving the sod almost dry within an hour after the deluge. This gave a practical illustration of one of the advantages of the Newark camp ground.

CONCERT

By Fifth Regiment Band Enjoyed by Hundreds Wednesday Night—Entertained by the Elks.

The officers of the Fifth regiment were entertained by the local lodge of Elks on Wednesday night at their club rooms in the city. The band of this regiment gave a fine concert on a platform erected in the street below the club rooms, which was enjoyed by hundreds of citizens who congregated about the band stand, besides a large number of the lodge and their ladies who listened to the music from the windows of the lodge rooms.

The solo by Orville Robertson was encored and that gentleman who is recognized as one of the best cornetists in Ohio, gracefully responded by playing an old time melody. The following program was rendered:

1. Dixie Girl—Characteristic march Lamer.
2. Overture—William Tell, Rosini.
3. Cornet Solo—Mr. Adville A. Robertson, Selected.
4. Concert Waltz—Land of the Midnight Sun, St. Clair.
5. Descriptive Fantasia—A Summer's evening in the Alps; King.
6. Intermzzo Anono, Grey.
7. Lo! Hear the Lark—Duet for Flute and Clarinet, Bishop.
8. Overture Morning, Noon and night, Suppe.

After the concert a buffet lunch was served and those who attended this function had a most enjoyable social session.

SAVED FROM SUICIDE

In the case shown by above photographs, the sufferer, Mr. Henry Kensler of Pittsfield, Ill., was in a desperate state from eczema which had continued for over ten years, becoming steadily worse and worse each year in spite of all doctoring possible. Life seemed hopeless and suicide was often thought of.

Seeing an account in a newspaper a short time ago of a remarkable case of eczema cured by D. D. D., Mr. Kensler tried it. He wrote in to the D. D. D. Company offering to be photographed and to permit publication of his photo if they would guarantee the remedy to cure him as completely as in the case he had read of. From the first use of it he states that all itching and distress disappeared. And in three week's time the skin healed over in every spot where affected. In a short time (it was a matter of only a very few days) the proper, white, natural, smooth state of skin was restored, and there has never since been any recurring sign of the disease anywhere on his body.

Started in Few Small Spots.

The persistent spreading and tenacity of this disease are seen in this case. First one and then another small spot showed. Nothing could drive them away. Slowly the limbs became covered and the neck and back. He fought hard to save the face, but that next was covered and told the story of his misery to the world. Then the hair became encrusted with it. Small beginnings were showing almost everywhere else on the body, hardly a square inch being free from it. In a few years more the man would undoubtedly been one wretched, writhing scab had D. D. D. not conquered the disease. With his tortures already experienced and with this future staring him in the face, what wonder is it that suicide seemed inevitable.

A wonderful particular of this case (as seen in all cases more or less) is that the worst big sores were the first to give way to the treatment, while the disease lurking under the skin held on longest. Twenty-one days, however, cleared out the whole affection—every germ of it.

I Vouch For Above.

The facts in this case of Mr. Henry Kensler of Pittsfield, Ill., have been laid before me in all details with proofs that are unmistakable. Every particular in the history of this remarkable cure more than bears out the above statement of the case. From the proofs submitted, I feel that this announcement comes far from doing full justice to the remarkable merit of a medicine which accomplishes results so important to humanity.

Since I have handled the preparation in this city, a great number of people have used it for various skin affections. Its results have been invariably satisfactory. I am therefore willing to guarantee any purchaser full return of his $1.00, if satisfactory results are not experienced from a trial of a bottle in any case of skin affection.

sad event of Sunday at Cincinnati.

Beginning today the spectacular features of camp, the brigade and division reviews will be of daily occurrence. Either brigade or division reviews will be held each day. Today General Speaks will have the Second brigade out for review. Tomorrow the division will be reviewed. On Saturday Gen. McMaken will review his brigade and on Sunday the last review will be held.

This will be division review and not only the Governor and General Dick will review it, but also Senator Hanna and Col. Herrick. The Sunday review will not be as perfect a sight as that of tomorrow for it will occur at 4 p. m., not a 5:15, as has been stated, and these big reviews are best when they take place after the glare of the sun is past. The Sunday review will occur too early for that. The early hour is chosen for the benefit of the many visitors who will then be in camp, and who will have to leave so early that the regular hour would not allow them to see the review at all.

This afternoon the Second brigade, under Gen. Speaks, will do a brigade drill. This is a distinct novelty and the second brigade has had a monopoly so far of it. It's a drill that excites great interest. Very few military men, even officers of the regular army, have ever seen it and General Speaks is sure to have a large and interested audience.

BATTALION RETURNS.

The battalion of the First regiment with the band, which went to Cincinnati, to attend the funeral of the late Col. W. E. Bundy, arrived in camp from the funeral at 1:30 Thursday morning, coming to Newark on the special train which bore them down to Cincinnati on their sad duty.

This battalion, under Major Sullivan, was excused from all duty Thursday morning, but took up the regular routine in the afternoon. Chaplain Howard Henderson accompanied the battalion to and from Cincinnati.

CRAWFORD

The Popular Newark Officer Will No Doubt be Elected Major Soon in Fourth.

There is absolutely no truth in a report sent out from camp to a Columbus paper that here is a feeling in the Fourth regiment that a major should be elected to command the third battalion, who lives in Columbus. Captain George Cary Crawford of Newark is acting as major and a careful canvass of the regiment leads to the inevitable conclusion that he will be drill Wednesday afternoon, and for a time his life was despaired of. He was taken to the hospital and Thursday morning was considered out of danger, although he will probably not be able to report for duty the rest of the time in camp.

The health of the troops continues remarkably good, Crandalls being the most serious case of illness, although Lieut. Ramsey of Co. M, Washington C. H., Private Coleman of Co. C, of Columbus, were sent home on account of illness which had not yet developed serious symptoms.

SQUADRON

Drill by the Cavalry First Yet Held—Officers Complimented Drill.

The first squadron drill ever held by an Ohio National Guard cavalry was the feature of the work in this branch of the service Thursday morning. Captain Baird of Troop B, Columbus, was in command and the men received words of commendation from the officers who witnessed it, including Captain Herron of the Second United States Cavalry.

CARE OF GUNS.

Orders from the war department at Washington, containing explicit instructions for the care of the new Krag-Jorgensen rifles and carbines, recently issued to the companies, were promulgated throughout division headquarters Thursday morning.

RIB BROKEN.

John Moseley, cook for Co. E, Seventh regiment, of Somerset, had a rib broken Wednesday afternoon by his tent blowing over. He was struck in the side with a tent stake.

EIGHTH COMPLIMENTED.

Much favorable comment has been passed upon the Eighth regiment, Colonel Vollrath, for its uniform appearance on parades and indeed upon all occasions. It is the only regiment in camp which dresses, every man of it, for any and all occasions as the regulations prescribe. The uniform appearance of its more than 600 men has been generally noted. It is the largest regiment in camp, having 635 men present for duty. The men of the Eighth have strong hopes of being chosen to represent the state at the maneuvers at West Point, Ky., next year, and it is generally believed that either the Eighth or the Sixth will be chosen. The Second doesn't admit, by any means, that they are out of the competition and the Cincinnati First also scots "Here."

THE FOOL WHO WON.

Horace Greeley's First Experience

In New York City.

When Horace Greeley first went to New York city, a green, awkward country boy, he met with discouragement. For two days he tramped the streets, visiting two-thirds of the printing offices in the town and always receiving a cold refusal of his services.

His biographer, Mr. W. A. Linu, says that by Saturday night Greeley was satisfied that the city offered him no hope of a living. He decided to leave for the country on Monday, before his last dollar was gone.

It happened that some acquaintances of his landlord, who called on Sunday, told him of an office where a compositor was wanted. Greeley went there Monday morning before the place was open. His appearance was so uncouth that he would have been rejected there also if the foreman had not had difficulty in getting a compositor for a piece of work he wanted done.

This was setting up a small New Testament with narrow columns, the text interspersed with references to notes marked in Greek and other unusual characters. So complicated was the task and so little could the compositor earn at it that several men had abandoned the work almost as soon as they had begun it.

The foreman offered the work to Greeley, believing that in half a day the boy would prove himself incapable of performing it. When the proprietor saw Greeley at work he asked the foreman why he hired that fool and said, "Pay him off tonight."

But the foreman did not pay him off. This boy had worked on a New England farm, had cut wood in the winter cold and in summer had worked in the fields under the noon sun. He was not afraid of toil. He set that Testament. When the foreman examined the first proof he found that Greeley had set more type and set it better than any one else who had tried.

SHOPS OF CANTON.

Every Art and Industry Represented

In the Chinese City.

The merchants' alleys are the paradise of the stranger who visits Canton, China. The shops have open fronts on either side the narrow lane, and every art and industry, the homeliest trade and the most fascinating pursuit, thrives in the dark passage. Black swinging signboards proclaim the business in characters of red or gold. Pandemonium triumphs in a series of yells as the chairman screams for pass room. The poles hit the pedestrian in the eye, and the mandarin joggles the stranger. The native tells his huge hat sidewise to avoid a crush, and often the coolies swing aslant in the alley or duck into a store to avoid a catastrophe.

The Chinese as a people are modest in their dress. The person is rarely exposed. Women wear double-breasted jackets which fit tight to the throat, and men are usually covered. But under the stress of hard labor the man at the forge is stripped to the waist, and in the foundry a nearly nude workman strides the iron seasaw like a horse in the treadmill. The butcher cleaves his flesh on the block amid dried rats and skins of fowls stretched taut on the rack. Next door the gold beater hammers in his cave. Beyond the kindling man piles high his forest of fagots. Near by the miller is beating the meal through coarse sieves. His neighbor skins fish and hopes to sell them from the box where they float under a feeble spurt of water. In the adjoining dock beautiful embroideries are piled mountain high, with silks, satins and brocaded tulle in wondrous designs of dragons and flowers.

Hau Cheung Tai patiently transfers them by the hundred from shelf to table in the hope that some stray bit may catch the buyer's fancy. Feathers are an important industry, and fans, folding or open, line the next shop, painted in every fanciful conception.—Detroit Free Press.

Grotesque English.

No doubt purchasers in other lands have reason to smile at English attempts to worthily describe English wares in a foreign tongue. It is to be hoped, however, that our business houses do not send forth announcements quite so grotesque as some that come to this country. Here is a form issued by a very considerable continental firm: "Does your dressing case need, by chance, a superfine antiseptic soap, an energetic perfumed lotion, a delicious cream, an impalpable velveteen, a very delicate and lasting extract and unmatchably efficient dentifrice? Or do you wish to buy those articles to make a present, the most desirable one, to a very dear person on his saint's or birth day?"—London Express.

Origin of "Pants."

The words breeches, trousers and pantaloons are now used interchangeably, but originally the significations were quite different. Pantaloons were at first nothing but long stockings worn in Italy as a sort of religious habit by the devotees of St. Pantaleon. Breeches originally reached from the waist half way to the knee and finally to the knee, where they were fastened with a buckle. Trousers are the present style of leg gear, a combination of the former two.

Her Right.

"What right has she to star?" asked the envious Inesplan. "The best right in the theatrical world," was the reply. "She has secured an angel."—Chicago Post.

LASSA'S SACRED TEMPLES.

Since 1846 No Outsider Has Succeeded in Reaching Them.

It may be said at the beginning of the twentieth century that, except for the two poles, there is not a corner of the earth where white men have not penetrated. Yet in truth there exists on the Asiatic continent hardly 200 miles from the frontier of British India a city, the capital of Tibet, to which the "white men" of Europe and America are absolutely forbidden access. Within a distance of from 150 to 200 miles from this city all the roads leading to it at the place where they cross the frontier to the province of Wu, of which Lassa is the chief town, are jealously guarded by pickets of Tibetan soldiers. Immediately upon perceiving a suspicious looking caravan the sentinels notify the local authorities. The advancing traveler then sees rise up before him a whole detachment of armed men commanded by high functionaries of the country, who, without discussing the matter, politely insist that the bold pioneer retrace his steps. They even offer him the money and food necessary for the return voyage, at the same time warning him that if he continue on his way to Lassa he will pay for it with his life.

Such a state of affairs has not always existed. During the middle ages and until the middle of the eighteenth century a number of Europeans, mostly Catholic monks, were able to remain for long periods in the holy city of the Tibetans, who profess, as we know, the Buddhist-Lamaist religion. But since the expulsion in 1760 of the Capuchin monks, who tried to meddle with the internal affairs of the country, all Europeans have been regarded with suspicion, and none has been allowed to penetrate into Lassa. Nevertheless in 1811 Thomas Manning, an English traveler, and in 1846 Hue and Gabet, two French missionaries, were able to spend months at Lassa in the disguise of Buddhist pilgrims. They were recognized, however, and were asked to leave the country as quickly as possible. Since 1846 no European has succeeded in reaching the sacred temples of Lassa.—J. Deniker in Century.

God's Country.

Do you know where God's country is located? When we were out in the territories enduring hardships and privations we used to talk of "back in the states" as "God's country." The early pioneers of the west looked toward the Atlantic seaboard and the country along the Ohio and thought of "God's country." Now those who are compelled to remain for a time in the Philippine Islands know that any part of the United States is "God's country." Nearly all of them upon returning to American shores remark, "It is good to be back in God's country once more." It is not likely that Alaska is included in the good land, for men returning from the big territory of the arctic circle upon landing at Tacoma declare they are again in "God's country." But since our colonial acquisitions the sobriquet "God's country" is fast becoming recognized as meaning the United States.—Washington Post.

Advices from the Balkans hourly add to the accumulated story of homicides and every species of lawlessness and devastation. Exaggeration may affect some of the recitals, but enough would be left to induce the same reflections excited by the undetected mass. It would seem that the first idea occurring to an American mind would be that the Christians who have endured so much in those provinces should be permitted to have an independent country and be protected by a government most closely resembling them in faith and customs—in fact, most largely in race. That land is Russia. She did rescue Bulgaria once, and was robbed of her good work by the mere land-grabbing disposition of jealous rivals. At present the deplorable element is noticeable in the comment of indulging in recriminations against these Christians, and interjecting the Miss Stone incident. The kidnapping of this missionary, alleged to have been done by the Macedonian committee to raise funds for their crusade against the Turks, is a flimsy affair upon which to found a sympathetic plea for the sultan. It is pro-British and meant to array hostile opinion against Russia and her fleet now nearing the Bosphorus. It is a sort of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" variety of inflammation. The Turk should be driven from the disaffected provinces, and their guardianship given to the country that can best protect them. England was too much crippled by the Boer war to feel much concern for Christian people, but she would like to have the Miss Stone episode help her keep Russia away from the Mediterranean.

STRANGE

Was the Accident That Cost the Life of a Brakeman—Mangled by Metal Sheets.

Columbus, O., Aug. 20—Unusually strange was the accident that caused the death of James Whelan, of Galion, a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman in the Panhandle yards.

While moving along the track he noticed a cut of cars coming in his direction. He was standing at the front of the first car and immediately proceeded to apply the brakes, but they would not work. Running the length of the first car he tried to set the brakes of the second one, and in the attempt lost his balance and was thrown into a car containing immense sheets of iron. Just as he felt the other cut of cars struck the one on which he was in charge, shoving the sheets of iron together and severing his right leg. The left one was terribly mangled and crushed. The iron sheets acted like a huge pair of shears, snipping flesh and bone like tissue paper. He died in the hospital.

AMUSEMENTS.

In "The Dairy Farm" there is enough live stock on display to supply a genuine country fair. Chickens are the first to make their appearance at the rise of the curtain, quickly followed by a horse, a dog, and finally a real baby, who wins the approval of the house instantly.

There are real men and women, too, temptation to overact.

"The Dairy Farm" is full of pretty pictures. In the first act Miss Hall and Mr. Fowler give a scene of idyllic love making by a stone wall and a turnstile, and making a lovely and poetic tableau of themselves.

In the second act a livelier picture shows a jolly country crowd playing kissing games, which both audience and players seem to enjoy.

Then follows the picture of an old-time political gathering on the combut naturally, this being a rural drama they are of secondary interest.

Louis Albion looks the bashful country bumpkin to perfection, and Kate Jepson is a good motherly housewife, with no exaggeration.

Jane Holly, too, as a second Mrs. Malaprop is the cause of much good fun.

Fay Courtney, as the village belle, is charming and winsome as ever, though yielding occasionally to the man with American eagle speeches.

No mention of this play is complete without reference to the fine work of Wilton Taylor, who presents Squire Hurley with even more than his usual artistic finish.

Louis Frohoff, as Simon Krumm, is thoroughly good, and Charles Lum in the small part of a runaway slave does a fine bit of acting.

What You Ought To Know About Ohio Tax Laws

A DISCUSSION BY

LAWYER THORNDIKE AND FARMER PERKINS

NUMBER ONE (To Be Completed in Ten Numbers).

FARMER PERKINS—Lawyer
Thorndike, I am in trouble. I have a neighbor, Abel Jones. He is a dog fancier, has a great number of dogs and was engaged in making out his tax return. His assessor told him he could have $100 in personal property exempt from taxation, and he wanted to take it in dogs. The assessor replied to him he could take it in any personal property, except dogs. Jones says he will have it in dogs; now, what is to be done about it.

Lawyer Thorndike—The constitution of the state, Act XII Section 2, provides that personal property to an amount not exceeding in value $200 for each individual may, by general laws, be exempted from taxation. On March 1, 1853, the legislature acted on this matter and provided that each individual in the state might hold as exempt from taxation personal property of any description of which he was the actual owner, not exceeding $50 in value.

This remained the law of Ohio till May 9, 1894, when the exemption was increased from $50 to $100, and the dogs were excepted. The law has remained in this form since.

Farmers Perkins—But why were not the dogs excepted until 1894, and why were they excepted at all?

Lawyer Thorndike—The legislative journals are too ponderous reading for any citizen, and I cannot answer your question without them. There is always one fool in every legislature, and the legislature of 1894 was no exception. In this case the fool got his work to be endorsed by the body of which he was a part, as is sometimes done. All the cranks try to break into the legislature. Some of them are sure to succeed, in some counties, and when they do, they sometimes engraft their folly into the law.

Farmers Perkins—But Abel Jones says it is his constitutional right to exempt his dogs if he wants to, and he does not propose to be trampled on if he can help it. Is there no way he can have the law declared unconstitutional or otherwise nullify it?

Lawyer Thorndike—I would not advise your friend to try the supreme court on the dog question. That court is unduly sensitive on that subject. A citizen of Washington county, a descendant of the famous Richard Roe, of legal text-books, tried to vindicate the dogs. Ex-Judge Loomis, father of the minister to Venezuela, convinced the court of common pleas of that county that the dog tax law contained in Section 2.754 of the Revised Statutes, was unconstitutional, but Nye and Oldham took the case to the district court. That court considered the question too hefty for it, and passed the dog up to the supreme court. Judge Loomis argued manfully for the dog in the supreme court, but its sympathies could not be aroused for the noble animal. The court resorted to the police power to avoid the ad valorem rule in the constitution as to dogs. When that court wishes to sustain a measure, and can think of no other way, it resorts to the police power.

Farmers Perkins—But if Abel Jones cannot exempt his dogs from taxation on the authority of the supreme court, is there no other way in which he can do it?

Lawyer Thorndike—Oh, yes. It is very easy to defeat the law, if Abel Jones is so disposed. The exemptions are all made in the mind of the tax bearer. The tax list does not require him to set out and value his exempt property, so he selects it in his mind, and then lists his other property and values it. Abel Jones can, in his mind, value his dogs at $100, return his other property, and thus he will exempt his dogs in spite of the legislature.

Farmers Perkins—Is there no way in which Abel Jones can be prevented from thus exempting his dogs?

Lawyer Thorndike—Not if Abel Jones keeps a still tongue. By so doing, his return will never be questioned. Farmers Perkins—But under this exemption of $100 in personal property might not the tax bearer really exempt personal property in a much larger sum?

Lawyer Thorndike—Oh, yes, that is very easy. The law of Ohio makes every man the appraiser of his own property, and his own assessor. The so-called assessor is only an errand boy employed at $2.00 per day to distribute blanks and gather them up. This exemption is good for $1,000 at any time to a citizen of any ability and with an easy conscience. He can say in his mind that certain personal property which cost $1,000 is worth $100, list his other property, and thus exempt $1,000 under a $100 clause.

Farmers Perkins—But might not a party doing this be prosecuted for perjury?

Lawyer Thorndike—I have practiced law for 37 years and never heard of a prosecution for perjury for a false oath to a tax list. There is not now and never was a convict in the Ohio penitentiary for a false oath to a tax return, nor is there any in any penitentiary in the United States of which I ever heard.

Perjury as to a matter of fact is one thing and so-called perjury as to a matter of opinion is another. The law as to false oath to a tax return is a dead letter. Besides, if any prosecution of that kind were ever attempted the defendant would have the sympathy of all other taxpayers and a conviction could hardly be secured.

Farmers Perkins—So that if Abel Jones had $1,000 worth of dogs and wanted to exempt them for taxation he could do so under the $100 exemption clause?

Lawyer Thorndike—That is practically the case. Abel Jones could, in his mind, say his $1,000 in dogs were worth $100, and thus exempt them under the law as the assessor is not advised in what property he takes his exemption.

Farmers Perkins—Who was the author of the $50 exemption from taxation in the law of 1853?

Lawyer Thorndike—It is believed to have been the Hon. Joseph R. Cockerill of Adams county. The following story is told of him: He spent much arduous labor in the passage of the tax laws of 1853. When he returned to his constituents in Adams county he told them that the law exempting $50 was passed to exempt their household and kitchen furniture. That none of them had household or kitchen furniture above $50 in value and they should not return it. His constituents took Mr. Cockerill's advice and from that day to 1894, it is currently reported, not a farmer in Adams county has ever had household or kitchen furniture above $50 in value.

Farmers Perkins—I am told tax exemptions were greater from 1846 to 1859. How is that?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 1846 the Hon. Alfred Kelley secured the passage through the legislature of a general property tax law, the first of the kind in the state. In this law he placed a wonderfully liberal list of exemptions, good for several thousand dollars, but in six years' time these exemptions were repealed, and the state, in 1853, settled on a $50 exemption, which was limited to $200 in the constitution of 1851, but which the legislature held at $50 till 1894. In Alfred Kelley's law, claims against the state were exempt. This was wise and just and should have remained. Heads of families had furniture to $100 exempt. Tavern keepers had furniture to $200 exempt. Wearing apparel and articles of food were exempt. All animals except horses, cattle, mules, asses and hogs were exempt. Also all farmers' implements but road wagons. Mechanics' tools to the amount of $100 were exempt. To a head of a family one cow, eight sheep, four hogs, were exempt, and if the tax bearer did not have them, furniture to the amount of $100. In Minnesota, where $100 is exempt from taxation, the county auditor deducts it from the return. The taxpayer is not permitted to do it, as in Ohio. Kelley's law also exempted all lands for 5 years after sold by the United States. Kelley's exemptions were repealed April 3, 1852, 50 O. L. 135, and $200 exemption given in gross. This was reduced to $50 March 12, 1853, remained such to May 9, 1894, when it was increased to $100, where it has since remained.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR TAXATION.

Every taxpayer in the state will be glad to know that the pending taxation constitutional amendment is not the work of politicians and, in case of its adoption by the people, that there is an organization of responsible business men who will make it their special duty to see that Ohio is provided with a better system of state and local taxation than can be found in any other state in the Union.

The Ohio State Board of Commerce, representing the ablest business men and the best business organizations in the state, in an address to the people, makes the following statements:

Responsible for Taxation Amendment.
The proposed taxation constitutional amendment is primarily the work of this board. Its committee on legislative bills approved the wording of the amendment in the form in which it is now submitted to the people before it was enacted by the general assembly.

The organic purpose of this board being to promote and safeguard the business interests of Ohio, responsibility for the pending taxation amendment requires us to make a statement, at this time, of the principles that have governed our efforts to secure a taxation amendment to the constitution in this form, and that will govern the taxation legislation we will promote when the constitution has been amended as proposed.

Kind of Tax System the State Needs.
The state needs a simple and just tax system that will enable the inhabitants in each tax district to raise sufficient revenue for their local requirements, including their just portion of county and state expenditures, from sources not otherwise taxed, without interference by any other taxing body, and that will enable every taxpayer to make oath as to his taxable property without perjury, or injustice to himself.

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. After a short prayer by Rev. Mr. Brown, the guests proceeded to enjoy the elegant dinner. Mr. William Wallace was master of ceremonies at the table. The lawn was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ivy, under the skillful hand of Miss Helen Wolcott of Columbus.

Instrumental and vocal music was furnished by the children of Rev. Brown, and by Mrs. Glennie Lewis, and also a song by several little girls from the Fairmont Sabbath school. Rev. Brown gave a short talk, telling the people how much he appreciated their good will. Rev. Robert Yost, of Omaha, Neb., then gave a short address, which was very appropriate to the occasion. The guests left about 4 o'clock, thinking they had spent a very pleasant and enjoyable day.

BUSY PLACE

In the Big Camp is the Office of Col. Geo. M. Wright at Headquarters.

One of the busiest places in camp is the head quarters of the division and putant general, Col. Geo. M. Wright, which tent is situated at the end of division row, curiously enough farthest away from the tent of the division commander. This location is not usual, but is incidental at this camp. Every order issued, every report received, every official letter written, many passes issued go through this office. Every document issued or approved is signed by Col. Wright who also dictates all orders, official communications and other business, which is rapidly transcribed by stenographers and type writers.

Although constantly at work Col. Wright is never too busy to be courteous and accommodating to every one who has business with his office, and his uniform affability and kindness to correspondents is greatly appreciated by the news writers. Col. Wright is painstaking, accurate, and rapid, and is never hurried or excited and the amount of work he does is almost incredible. He is assisted by acting Sergeant Major R. Hess, of Co. B 8th Ohio, who is familiar with the routine of the office, having seen several years service in the regular army, with the 1st U. S. cavalry in which he served before the late war as a non-commissioned officer.

TOLEDO BATTERY.

Battery D, of Toledo were the star performers yesterday. They had their horses hitched up for the first time and the men had their way it would be the last time for particular horses. It took the men about an hour to get from their camp to the drill ground—that is as much as if the battery succeeded in getting there and before they finished going and coming they had done several things. They had perspired off pounds and pounds, they had exhausted their stock of "cuss" words, they had entertained a large crowd and they had made several hours work for the Signal Corps.

The difficulty all came from their horses which are green or vicious. The animals were rented from farmers hereabouts and apparently they are the meanest lot in Licking county.

The drivers could do hardly anything with them. They bucked and plunged and balked and each one of the four horse team went in a direction opposite from the others. They even tried to run away, though the weight of their load soon made them change their minds as to that. Finally about two thirds of the battery got to the drill ground but going and coming they played tag with the telephone wires of the Second Brigade. The camp poles are so light that they were easily broken off and many feet of wire was pulled onto the ground.

The infantry and artillery haven't a great deal of use for each other anyway and the comments of the infantry officers, as the battery went plunging and jumping through the telephone system were much more spirited than elegant.

The men of the Signal quickly to work and in a brief time had the service in order again.

BATTERY

From Cleveland Did Some Good Shooting at Camp, at 1500 Yards Range.

The first target practice to be held by any of the organizations in camp, was held by Battery A, of Cleveland, which is equipped with the regulation 3.2 inch guns. A range of 1500 yards was secured, the target being placed on a hillside in full view of every soldier in camp while the piece was stationed in a field adjoining the camp grounds. Every officer in camp watched the target through field glasses from his quarters, and they all spoke in the highest terms of the crack Cleveland artilleryists under command of Captain Julius A. Blasis.

Governor George K. Nash, Major General Dick, Brigadier Generals J. C. Speaks and W. V. McMaken, Surgeon General Brush, all of the Ohio National Guard, and Inspecting Officers Major Williams of the Third Infantry, Major Rogers of the Twentieth Infantry and Captain Herron of the Second Cavalry were guests of Captain Blasis of Battery A, at mess Wednesday noon.

The result of Wednesday's target practice by Battery A, was very commendable considering atmospheric and other conditions, five of the fifteen shots going through the target which did not look much bigger than a large handkerchief. Captain Blasis will have target practice again on Thursday and Friday, and expects to do much better work. It costs about $7 a shot for work of this kind.

THE PEASANT POPE.

PIUS X. AND HIS REMARKABLE RISE TO POWER.

How a Son of the Soil Became Supreme Pontiff—His Devotion to Duty and to His Humble Relatives. Not a Self Seeker.

Pius X., the new pope of Rome and, according to the list of supreme pontiffs given in the official Catholic directory, the two hundred and sixty-fourth successor of St. Peter, is a modest, learned, devout man of the people. He came of a humble Italian family and has risen to his present eminence because of great ability, unswerving honesty and tireless energy. Day by day as a humble, studious youth, as a priest, as a bishop, as a cardinal, as a papal chamberlain, spiritual director of a seminary, prosynodal examiner, member of an ecclesiastical tribunal, vicar of the chapter of Treviso, bishop of Mantua and as cardinal and patriarch of Venice, Queen City of the Adriatic, he has done the work before him as his conscience dictated that it should be done, content to let virtue be its own reward.

POPE PIUS X.

But, as is usual in such cases, the man who was not a self seeker, the man who shunned publicity and applause and seemed indifferent to the furtherance of his own fortunes, has won the very highest place within the gift of a great church.

Born Giuseppe Sarto, son of a peasant family, the new pope has always been proud of his extraction and is a lover of the plain people.

Three of his sisters, who are spinsters, have long shared with him the patriarchal palace in Venice, and he has in many ways assisted and benefited other relatives who are still in humble circumstances. One of his sisters is a dressmaker and earns a living for her family with her needle, another is the wife of a sacristan and peddler, and a third married the keeper of a small wine shop. Angelo, the pope's only brother, resides in the village of Dollegrazie, province of Mantua, and as postman of the district receives $80 a year for his services. As this sum does not support his family, he keeps a HIGH ALTAR IN ST. PETER'S, ROME shop in which he sells tobacco and pork. Now that Giuseppe is pope his postman brother may become a count.

The new pope is a native of Riese, near Venice, and is sixty-eight years of age. After a studious youth he was consecrated priest at Castelfranco, and for nine years he acted as coadjutor to the parish priest of Tombolo, where his patience, charity and kindness endeared him to the people, rich and poor alike. He often went without proper food himself that he might keep some poor family from starving. His rise in the church was slow, but steady. He was parish priest at Salzano in 1867-68, chancellor of the bishopric of Treviso in 1873, bishop of Mantua in 1881, cardinal and patriarch of Venice in 1893, and in 1903 he is supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic church.

The new pope has a fine, erect figure, with a fresh, almost youthful face, and is said to be a very handsome man. His thick, luxuriant hair is snow white, and his large, dark eyes are expressive and kind. Owing to his friendly relations with the king and queen of Italy, there is a possibility that his pontificate may be made memorable by the settlement of the long standing differences between the Vatican and the Italian government.

DIPLOMACY

[Original.]

"This dispatch is for the secretary of state. It is of immense importance, because it will determine the route of the canal. Should the enemies of that route get possession of it they could defeat the negotiations and possibly insure the success of the other scheme. Get it through safely and you will find your promotion in the secretary's office awaiting you. Fail, and your diplomatic career is ended."

George Gathney, secretary of legation, twenty-three years of age, newly married, left the embassy and hurried home to inform his young wife of his good fortune and make preparations for his journey.

"George, dear," said Alice Gathney, turning on him a pair of expressive eyes, "where do you think it safest to carry the dispatch?"

"In my pocket."

"I'm thinking, George, that your pocket would be just the place any one getting wind of your having it and interested in stealing it would first search."

"What do you say to my hat?"

"I don't like that either."

"Where would you put it?"

"The trouble is, George, you have one defect for a diplomat. You're not reticent. I'm afraid you might get to talking about it and—"

"Come, now, sweetheart," said the young husband with a kiss, "don't treat me like a schoolboy. I'm not quite a fool. I choose to carry it in my suit case, which I shall never let out of my possession. Now do the packing at once and I'll be off."

Alice did as she was bidden, and when all was ready showed her husband a neatly tied package marked "Dispatch" in her own feminine hand.

"You see, George," she explained, "this paper on which it is folded will conceal the official printing and address so that no one will recognize it."

"Oh, you stupid!" laughed the husband, and revealed it on the cover. "What did you mark it 'Dispatch' for?"

"That's to let you know it when you see it. You see, there are other packages, and—"

The words were interrupted by a shower of kisses, with a mumbling of "Dear little fool!" "Crazy idiot!" and similar endearing expressions.

"Goodbye, darling!" said the young diplomat before entering the carriage that was to take him to the station. "If it wasn't so sudden I'd take you with me, but you know the baby needs you."

"Yes, George. Never mind that. Keep your wits about you. Now remember something I'm going to tell you: In your overcoat pocket you'll find a note from me saying one more goodbye for you just before you sail. Promise me you'll read it shortly before the steamer leaves."

"I promise." And with a hug and a long drawn kiss the couple parted.

The steamer sailed at 3 in the morning. George Gathney dined ashore and was preparing to go aboard when a gentleman whom he had seen often at the embassy—indeed, had been employed there for a time—came up to him and presented a note from the minister which read:

This will introduce Mr. Francis Carr, who will explain verbally what I have to say to you through him.

Mr. Carr said that the minister was anxious about the dispatch, as it had been reported to him that those interested in the other route had declared the paper should not go through. Carr asked Gathney where he carried it, and Gathney told him. Then Carr asked him to lock the suit case in his room and he would take him to a place where he would receive final secret instructions. He did as he was ordered and accompanied the man to a retired spot in a park, where they waited an hour, when Carr, apparently very much disappointed that no one appeared, returned with Gathney to the hotel. There he bade him adieu, and Gathney went aboard the steamer.

He determined to undress, get into his berth, read his wife's note and go to sleep. Opening his suit case and for his night clothes he was startled to find the dispatch package missing.

He felt with a moan on his berth. He knew at once that Carr was a fraud, that his note of introduction had been forged and that he had been enticed away from the hotel in order that a confederate might enter his room and take the dispatch.

As soon as he had regained something of equanimity he began to think. In his distress he needed the comfort of a word from his wife. Opening her note he read:

Goodbye, dearie. You'll find the dispatch in your left boot in the suit case.

A plunge for the suit case, a dive for the boot, and behold, the dispatch!

"Oh, you trump! You little brick! You beautiful! Sharp! Why haven't I you here to give you a million embraces and ten million kisses? You marked it 'Dispatch' so that I would know it, did you? You mean so that the other fellow would know it. How easily he found it and how well arranged your plan that he shouldn't have to search for it, or he might have found the genuine one. If ever a natural born fool was blessed with the shrewdest wife in the world, I'm that fool!"

And so he rattled on until he stumbled on his flask, and, pouring out a bumper, drank to "Alice Gathney, queen of diplomacy."

There was discussion in the enemy's camp, and it leaked out that the man who was expected to take the dispatch from the suit case, having been fooled by a woman, became an object of contempt and lost a valuable position. When the story was known at Washington Gathney was made consul general at a post paying $7,000 a year.

SCHOOL GIRLS

Held For Treason—Polish Students
Who Read History and Literature
Are Arrested.

Berlin, Aug. 20—The anti-German feeling in the Polish provinces of Prussia is continually increasing.

Of late, warning voices have been heard even here in Berlin, advising the government not to go to extremes. In spite of this, the government continues its course, and is now being severely criticised for the arrest for high treason of 50 young Polish girls.

These girls are all in the age of from 14 to 20 years, and with three exceptions they are all pupils at a fashionable school at Guesen, near Bromberg.

No greater crimes have been charged against these dangerous traitresses than that they have studied Polish literature and history with more enthusiasm than the authorities like.

These arrests have, however, proved too much even for the most rabid Nationalists.

No punishment can be given to these young children, who will only be rewarded by being considered martyrs by their countrymen.

SMALLEST HORSE

With Tail and Main Reaching Ground is Owned by a Licking County Man—Animal 28 inches High and Weighs Less Than 125 Pounds.

Mr. J. W. Wolfe, who lives near Johnstown, this county, is the owner of the smallest and the most unusual horse ever known, "Baby," as the horse is known is over four years old, and is 28 inches high and weighs less than 125 pounds.

"Baby" has always been owned by Mr. Wolfe and although he has received several good offers he has refused to part with the diminutive horse. Mr.

Wolfe will attempt to make arrangements to have the animal on exhibition at the St. Louis fair next year.

"Baby's" face resembles the face of a bulldog, the nostrils and teeth being very similar.

The horse's main and tail drag on the ground. He will eat anything except meat and is treated as a pet.

TO FORCE SULTAN

To End Balkan Rebellion by Granting Reforms in Earnest and Improving Lot of Christian Subjects—Turks Menaced by Powers.

London, Aug. 20—The action of Russian in ordering a naval squadron in Turkish waters may be speedily followed by an important joint naval action on the part of the Powers. Italy has already sent a squadron, and is ready to act in accordance with the other Powers.

The final demonstration will depend largely upon Russia, but if a joint demonstration is determined upon the fleets of France and Austria will certainly co-operate, and it is probable that the fleets of all the European Powers having Turkish interests except possibly Germany, which throughout has not favored taking energetic steps against Turkey, will take part in the demonstration.

The Russian squadron will anchor in the bay of Madi, off the coast of European Turkey, between Burgas and the entrance of the Bosphorus, 50 miles from the latter.

The attitude of indifference hitherto assumed by the Turkish officials toward Russia's action is giving way to one of marked concern. The Porte fears that Russia contemplates making still more important demands than contained in the recent note of M. Zinovieff, the Russian Ambassador, such as the appointment of a Christian Governor General of Macedonia.

The Russian demands on Turkey, growing out of the recent murder of the Russian Consul at Monastir, M. Rostkovski, were formally presented at the Yildiz palace in Constantinople yesterday.

Notwithstanding the warning which Russia addressed to the Bulgarian government, it is generally believed here that the Russian naval demonstration in Turkish waters will dangerously encourage the Macedonians, who it is asserted, will interpret Russia's action as being the first step toward intervention in their behalf. The insubordination of the Turkish troops is regarded as being one of the greatest dangers of the present Balkan crisis. The lack of discipline among the soldiers is marked. It is found necessary to humor them in order to prevent conflicts between the soldiers and their officers.

Consular reports received from Salonica continue to emphasize the danger of an outbreak of Mohammedan fanaticism there. The consular representatives have asked for protection, and the question of again dispatching warships to Salonica is being discussed by the representatives of the Powers.

Dispatches from Turkish sources say the insurgents have destroyed another village in Macedonia.

The Ambassadors of the Powers have again drawn the earnest attention of the Porte to the fears of massacres at Salonica, and have demanded the adoption of immediate and effective measures for the protection of the for-sign consulates and the subjects of the various Powers.

The following report show the growth of the Balkan revolt:

At Uskub there is a feeling of great unrest. The Mosques are guarded by troops, and it is feared they may be attacked.

The monastery of the Holy Virgin, near Kitchenero, has been burned by Albanians, after a determined struggle between the defenders of the monastery and the insurgents, during which both sides lost heavily.

Servian refugees are arriving at Uskub from Dibra, have fled from that place on account of the fear of a massacre. The Albanians in that district have burned a number of Bulgarian villages.

Reports from Monastir say 200 women who have arrived there from the Bulgarian village of Rakovo have presented petitions to the Russian and Austrian Consuls and to Kili Pasha, the Inspector General, setting forth that their village has been burned and that all the males of the population have been massacred. Fifteen villages in the district of Okrida, three in the district of Lerna and three in the district of Rezen have been destroyed.

Further details of the fighting at Krush show that the insurgents retired to a point in the vicinity of the town after losing 60 men killed and 12 wounded.

The Turkish loss was 250 men killed or wounded.

A band of 70 insurgents, near Koji in the vilayet of Uskub, fought a detachment of Turks all day. Nine of the insurgents were killed. The Turkish losses are not known.

On the following day a party of Bushi Bazouks entered the village and slaughtered all the inhabitants. Severe fighting is reported to have occurred near Vetarsko. The result is not known.

A revolutionary band engaged a force of Turkish troops yesterday at Kallar. Thirty of the revolutionists were killed and the troops are pursuing the remainder of the band.

A message from the Metropolitan of Salonica further confirms the reports that the Turkish troops on entering Krushovo terribly maltreated the inhabitants. About 150 Greeks and others, including 80 children, were marched as prisoners to Monastir. Five of them died on their way there.

COUPLE

DIVORCED FORTY-TWO YEARS
AGO REUNITED.

Through the Efforts of Their Sons,
Who Bear Different Names—Each
Had Remarried.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20—After being divorced for 44 years, and after living out their allotted time of three score years and ten, Mr. Henry Melville, of Illinois, and Mrs. Margaret Brown, of this city, who was the bride of Henry Melville's youth, were remarried Tuesday night by Rev. W. F. Lloyd. They will leave for Mr. Melville's Illinois farm in a few days. He is 74 and his bride for the second time is 76 years old.

During their separation both remarried and reared families, and it was through the sons of Mrs. Brown one who bears the name of Melville and the other that of her second husband, Brown, that the reunion was effected. These sons have reached middle age and have families. They are in business as Brown & Melville, furniture dealers, at 715 Twelfth street.

Forty-nine years ago in a little Massachusetts town Henry Melville and Margaret Hughes were married. They sought a home in the West, locating in Lake county, Ill. For five years they lived together and four children were born.

A difference arose, and they separated, the divorce following. Mrs. Melville returned to the east and there married Mr. Brown, a business man. Melville, too, returned to the east. There he remarried, and several children were born. He later returned to Illinois.

Mr. Brown died 25 years ago, and a son, Charles S. Brown, came to Louisville, where he met Henry Melville, his half brother. They engaged in business here and have been successful. Mrs. Brown came to live with her son Charles.

Two years ago Mrs. Melville's second wife died in Illinois, and the aged father came to visit his son in this city. During this visit he saw and talked with the white-haired woman with whom his married life was begun. He returned to his Illinois home determined to win back the old love, and succeeded.

Probably the first child in the country to be named in honor of Pope Pius X. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Picking of Bloomfield, N. J., says the New York Times. He was born on the day of the new pope's election.

The parents of the child are Protestants, and little Arthur Sarto Picking will be christened in the Protestant Episcopal church, of which the child's father is a communicant. Mr. Picking is a member of the Bloomfield board of trade, chairman of the Second Ward Republican club and a member of the Possum club of Bloomfield.

Novel Locomotive Exhibit.

One of the interesting exhibits at the St. Louis exposition will be a locomotive of the old red wheel type which used to run between Hannibal and St. Joseph, Mo., before the war, connecting at the latter town with Buffalo Bill's famous pony express, says the Four Track News. Side by side with this will be one of the great Burlington locomotives. This, with numerous similar contrasting exhibits, will tell in a story without words the almost incredible progress of railroading in the last half century.

CIRCUS

PEOPLE.

Good Parade Witnessed by Many—
Afternoon Performance Drew
Well and Was Good.

There was an immense crowd of people in the city Thursday being attracted by the presence of the Great Wallace Circus. From an early hour until the big parade passed, large crowds of people thronged the streets to see the many wonders presented by this show. The parade was one of the largest ever seen here. A dozen dens of fine, wild animals were open and were viewed with wonder by the people.

The display of horsemanship was a feast to the lovers of man's most useful animal.

Knights of old in glittering armor rode beside the ladies of the lattice, and jockeys in all the colors of the rainbow rode gracefully along. Stirring music rang out from three bands, while the weird music of the midway enlivened things.

This afternoon there was a big crowd at the show. Among the leading features may be mentioned jumping horses, including the world's highest jumper, "St. Patrick," who established the record of seven feet and five inches at Madison Square Garden last spring; and there are others. The Herras family of acrobats, consisting of seven people, did a remarkable line of tumbling, double and triple somersaults being thrown with the most apparent ease by both the men and women members of the troupe. The Fane Silvertons presented a novelty in a high wire performance, and were by all odds the best in their line ever seen in this city. Perhaps the most original act on the bill was that of the four Collins, a quartette who hail from Vienna, Austria, and their act was a very novel and graceful one and was greeted with genuine applause. The two Nevaes, head and hand balancers; the Strick family of bicyclists and the various other acts of the entire entertainment is one great whirl of fun and mirth from the beginning of the show until the last act. There will be a big crowd in attendance tonight.

CONDENSED

San Francisco, Aug. 20—Business of the G. A. R. was taken up today. From all surface indications it is fair to assume that Gen. Black will qualify as commander-in-chief of the organization. For vice-commander-in-chief C. M. Kinne of San Francisco, apparently has a clear field.

Paris, Aug. 20—When this morning's session of the Humbert trial opened Maitre Labori, counsel for the prisoners, resumed his address. He continued to argue along the same lines as yesterday. He claimed that accusation against his clients rests on external appearances and general conclusions, which are not confirmed by Humbert's past, which was honorable wherever their past was known. He said again Madame Humbert would make astounding revelations.

Washington, Aug. 20—Assistant Secretary of State Adee says that he received a second cablegram from Minister Beaupre, of Bogota, of the same date as the first (August 12) informing him that efforts are being made to secure further consideration of the canal treaty along lines of compromise. Adee states that Beaupre says nothing as to the vote on rejection of the treaty.
